

Name: _____ Date: _____

Aha! Crack the Code to Your 11th Grade Social Blueprint Quiz

Master high-stakes interpersonal skills and professional etiquette with this 11th Grade Everyday Communication Quiz designed for college and career readiness.

---

1. You are attending a scholarship interview and the interviewer asks a complex question about your future goals. Which 'active listening' technique most effectively demonstrates your engagement before you answer?

- A. Interrupting mid-question to show you already have a prepared response.
- B. Briefly paraphrasing the core of their question to ensure clarity before responding.
- C. Maintaining rigid eye contact without blinking to show intense focus.
- D. Checking your phone for notes to ensure your facts are accurate.

2. In a group project, a peer suggests an idea that you believe is logically flawed. Which 'I-statement' approach best maintains a collaborative atmosphere while addressing the issue?

- A. 'You are making a mistake that will lower our team grade.'
- B. 'Your idea doesn't make sense; we should do it my way instead.'
- C. 'I am concerned that this approach might overlook our budget constraints; can we explore that?'
- D. 'I think it's fine, but everyone else will probably hate it.'

3. During a formal presentation to your school board, you notice the audience looking at their watches. Which adjustment to your non-verbal communication and delivery should you make?

- A. Increase your volume and speak faster to finish the presentation quickly.
- B. Directly ask the audience why they are being disrespectful.
- C. Vary your vocal inflection and use an engaging gesture to re-establish a connection.
- D. Stop talking and wait for everyone to look up before continuing.

4. You are writing a follow-up email to a local business owner regarding an internship. Which subject line and salutation strike the appropriate balance of professional and everyday communication?

- A. Subject: Hey! / Salutation: Hi there,
- B. Subject: Follow-up: Internship Inquiry - [Your Name] / Salutation: Dear Mr./Ms. [Last Name],
- C. Subject: INTERNSHIP PLEASE / Salutation: To Whom It May Concern,
- D. Subject: [No Subject] / Salutation: [No Salutation]

5. When navigating a conflict with a coworker or classmate, which behavior best demonstrates 'high-level' emotional intelligence (EQ) in communication?

- A. Suppressing your emotions entirely to remain a 'blank slate' during the argument.
- B. Using sarcasm to lighten the mood and deflect tension.
- C. Identifying your own emotional triggers and asking for a brief 'cool-down' period before speaking.
- D. Comparing the person's behavior to others to show them how they are wrong.