

Name: _____ Date: _____

Don't Let the Ad-osaurus Fool You! Pre-K Media Magic Quiz

Challenge your littlest learners to spot the sneaky difference between a real animal and a toy commercial—foundational analysis meets creative deconstruction.

---

1. Imagine you see a shiny cereal box with a cartoon dragon on it. Who made this box, and why did they choose a dragon?

- A. A teacher made it to help you learn to fly.
- B. A company made it so children will want to buy the cereal.
- C. The dragon made it because he was hungry.
- D. A doctor made it to help you go to sleep.

2. If you were making a video to convince your friends that broccoli is the best snack in the world, what music would you play in the background?

- A. Silly, happy music that makes people want to dance.
- B. Scary, spooky music with loud bangs.
- C. Sad music that makes people want to cry.
- D. No music at all because it is too quiet.

3. You see a photo of a cat wearing sunglasses and driving a car. How do you know this photo was 'changed' and isn't just a regular snapshot?

- A. Because it is a very sunny day in the photo.
- B. Because cats like to nap, and this cat is awake.
- C. Because real cats cannot drive cars; someone used a tool to create a funny story.
- D. Because the car is red, and cats only like blue cars.

4. A TV commercial shows a toy robot flying through space, but when you open the box at home, it only walks on the floor. What happened?

- A. The robot is tired from the long trip to your house.
- B. The commercials use special effects to make toys look more exciting than they are.
- C. You forgot to give the robot a snack so it can fly.
- D. The robot only flies when you are sleeping.

5. Think about your favorite cartoon. If you wanted to tell the same story using only a piece of paper and crayons, what would you have to do differently?

- A. Nothing, the paper will start moving and talking by itself.
- B. You would have to draw the characters and use your imagination for the sounds.
- C. You would have to plug the paper into the wall.
- D. You can't tell stories on paper; you can only tell them on TV.